

Please do not dilute Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. Every evening about dinner time I would get two to three times from telemarketers. Since I have been on the no call list I can actually sit down to dinner and know if the phone rings it is my family or friends calling. Before this law I would complain about the onslaught of solicitors calling from about 5:00 pm to 11:00 pm. interrupting both dinner time and waking me from my sleep. I would often be told to just get caller ID. I thought this was ridiculous that I would be required to pay for extra services just to keep from having annoying sales pitches night after night.
